REMARKS.

It is the design of the Founders and friends of this Institution, to afford every facility to young ladies for acquiring a thorough and extensive education. In the words of its constitution, "the primary objects to be aimed at in this school shall ever be, to regulate the tempers, to improve the taste, to discipline and enlarge the minds, and form the morals of the youth who may be members of it. To form the immortal mind to habits suited to an immortal being, and to instill principles of conduct and form the character for an immortal destiny, shall be subordinate to no other care. Solid and useful acquirements shall always have the precedence of those which are merely showy or ornamental."

Able and experienced Teachers will be provided, as the state of the Institution may require.

There will be a preparatory class for Misses, under the direction of a skilful teacher, with special reference to the course pursued by the higher classes.

Particular attention will be devoted to young ladies who may wish to qualify themselves to teach.

BOARDING.

Good board may be obtained at from $1,50 to $2 per week. It is expected that a convenient boarding house will be erected the ensuing year to meet the constantly increasing demand for board.

WRITING.

The writing will, in future, be under the direction of Mr. Smith, a gentleman who has been eminently successful in his instruction in that art.

MUSIC.

Instruction in vocal music, will be given gratuitously. Instruction on the Piano Forte will be a separate charge.

TUITION.

For the English branches the tuition will be from $4 to $5 per term.

Next term commences Wednesday, Jan. 9, 1833.

The Abbott Female Seminary

Is designed to furnish young ladies, especially those who are preparing to teach, with a thorough christian education. There are four terms in the year of eleven weeks each, commencing on the third Wednesday in April, July, October and January.

Tuition (payable in advance,) for English branches $5,00—Latin and French $2,00 each. Instruction upon the piano $10,00—use of instrument $2,00. Board is from $2,00 to $3,00 per week.

The Principal has made arrangements to receive pupils under his immediate care, providing for board, etc. in the Seminary boarding-houses. In such cases, besides tuition, one half the price of board for the term, will be expected in advance. Tuition is not refunded except in cases of sickness at the discretion of the Principal. All who are admitted as pupils are under the entire control of the Principal and Preceptress as to employment of time, etc. Parental care is exercised over all from abroad. As the Principal and Preceptress with the aid of a sufficient number of competent teachers have access to ample apparatus, and every facility to promote habits of study, it is believed that this Seminary, in its present organization offers advantages for the education of young ladies, in preparation for teaching and for the various duties of life, equal to those of any other institution in our country.

The present organization of the Seminary took place in April, 1839, and has not yet been fully carried into effect, as many of the former pupils could not without detriment fall into the regular classes, and as arrangements respecting boarding-houses could not be immediately made. For the same reason some months may elapse before all the arrangements will become complete.

The course of study and discipline which has been adopted and put in operation as far as circumstances allow, is as follows.

The Seminary embraces a General Department for the accommodation of such as may not wish to pursue the Teacher's course. A Preparatory class is also connected with this Seminary for the instruction of such as are not of suitable age to join the other classes.

The discipline of the Seminary is designed to be drawn entirely from the Bible, which is made a constant, and regular study with all the pupils, the object being to induce self-government based upon a conscientious regard to religious principle. Pupils can be accommodated with seats in the Congregational, Episcopal, Baptist, and Methodist churches, all in the vicinity of the Boarding-houses, and are expected to attend meeting regularly on the Sabbath, and prepare for recitation weekly, a report of the discourses to which they have listened.

The regular Teacher's course embraces three years, although pupils may go over it more rapidly when circumstances seem to render it necessary. In the General Department all the usual English branches are taught through the year to accommodate the wants of those who do not enter upon the Teacher's course. It will be seen by the schedule that the two years' course in Latin and French embraces the first year of the Teacher's department. Those who wish can spend their whole time upon either or both these languages, omitting the English branches. Those who may wish to gain a more extensive acquaintance with Latin and French than is here presented can have the opportunity in separate classes. Lectures illustrated by appropriate charts, drawings and apparatus are incorporated so far as practicable with each study. And full courses of lectures upon Chemistry, Natural Philosophy, Botany, Mineralogy, and Geology, to which the members of this Seminary have access, are regularly delivered at the Teacher's Seminary. The regular time for admission is at the commencement of the Spring Term. Application for board and admission may be made by letter (post paid) directed to the Principal—in such cases the name, attainments, and general character should be stated. None under sixteen years of age are admitted to the Teacher's course. It is earnestly recommended that those who enter should come prepared to pursue their studies uninterruptedly, as a single term of absence must derange the class-standing of a pupil, and greatly retard her progress.

THE ABBOTT FEMALE SEMINARY

Is designed to furnish young ladies, especially those who are preparing to teach, with a thorough education.

The Principal has made arrangements to receive pupils under his immediate care, providing for board, etc., in the Seminary boarding-houses. All who are admitted as pupils are under the entire control of the Principal as to employment of time, etc. Parental care is exercised over all from abroad. As the Principal and Preceptress, with the aid of a sufficient number of competent teachers, have access to ample apparatus, and every facility to promote habits of study, it is believed that this Seminary, in its present organization, offers advantages for the education of young ladies, in preparation for teaching and for the various duties of life, equal to those of any other institution in our country.

The discipline of the Seminary is designed to be drawn entirely from the Bible, the object being to induce self-government based upon a conscientious regard to religious principle. Pupils can be accommodated with seats in the Congregational, Episcopal, Baptist and Methodist churches, all in the vicinity of the Boarding-houses, and are expected to attend meeting regularly on the Sabbath.

The regular course embraces three years, although pupils may go over it more rapidly when circumstances seem to render it necessary. All the common English branches are taught through the year. Lectures illustrated by appropriate charts, drawing and apparatus are incorporated so far as practicable with each study. The regular time for admission is at the commencement of the Fall Term. Application for board and admission may be made by letter, (post paid) directed to the Principal. It is recommended that those who enter should come prepared to pursue their studies uninterruptedly, as a single term of absence must derange the class-standing of a pupil, and greatly retard her progress.

The Winter Session of 22 weeks (including the Fall and Winter Terms) commences on the last Wednesday in October. —The Spring and Summer Terms, of 11 weeks each, commence on the third Wednesday of April and July.

Tuition—English $5,00 per quarter of 11 weeks—and for less than a quarter 50 cts. per week. Latin $2,00. French $2,00. Piano (24 lessons) $10,00. Use of instrument, one quarter, $2,00.

Board from $1,00 to $3,00 per week, according to distance from school-building, and the accommodations required.

Tuition, and half the price of board to be paid at the beginning of each quarter.

During the whole course, attention is given to Callisthenics, Vocal Music and Reading. Frequent exercises in Composition are required, and particular effort is made to form a correct style. Instruction is given with special reference to those young ladies who design to engage in teaching.

During the Spring Term, the members of the school have the opportunity of attending the Lectures on Chemistry and Geology, delivered in the English Department of Phillips Academy.

The Languages are usually pursued in connection with English branches, and in that case a longer time is required to complete the course. It is believed that a better discipline of the mind is secured, by a daily recitation in one of the languages, in connection with other studies, than by pursuing either course exclusively. In this department, special attention is given to pronunciation, grammatical analysis and to forming correct habits of mental application. The Preparatory Department is designed to furnish a thorough system of instruction in all the Elementary English Studies, and, so far as desired, in the Ornamental Branches. Young ladies are admitted to the whole or a part of the above course of study, and can pursue it as far as their time and circumstances will allow.

A Library of select works in English Literature has been procured for the Academy, in order to afford books for a course of reading in history and for reference in the department of study to which each may attend.

All the members of the school are expected to attend church on the Sabbath, and are required to be present at a Bible lesson once a week. A strict regard for the moral and religious character of the pupils will at all times be an object of care and solicitude with the teachers and guardians of the school.

No pupil, unless for special reasons, will be received for a less period than one term. Application for admission may be made to the Principal. It is very desirable that all should be present at the commencement of the term.

Young Ladies are admitted to the privileges of the Institution, to pursue the studies as marked out above, so far as their time and circumstances will allow.

The course of instruction in the English Studies embraces three years; and it is believed that a thorough knowledge of these branches cannot ordinarily be acquired in a shorter period. The Institution is provided with apparatus sufficient for illustrating most of the important principles in the natural sciences. During the Spring Term the members of the school have the opportunity of attending the Lectures on Chemistry and Geology, delivered in the English Department of Phillips Academy.

The study of the Languages holds a prominent place in the system. While this does not interfere with the course of those who wish to attend exclusively to the English branches, it is regarded the speediest and surest method of attaining that discipline which is the main object of all study. Experience proves that, in ordinary cases, a daily recitation in one of the Languages, if pursued under proper instruction two or three terms, will fully compensate the scholar for the time and expense employed, by the habits of application which it forms, and the aid it affords in acquiring a knowledge of other branches. As this department is regarded highly important, and as many young ladies resort to the school for the purpose of enjoying these advantages, it is the design of the Trustees to secure, at all times, the best instruction in every branch of Classical study to which it is desirable for Ladies to attend.

During the whole course attention is given to instrumental and vocal Music, to Drawing and Painting so far as desired, and to Callisthenics. The latter taken in connection with walking in the open air and riding on horseback, is regarded as highly useful not only in affording a pleasing relaxation from severer employments, but in avoiding those diseases to which the studious are always exposed, and securing that tone of health which is requisite for happiness and success in any pursuit.

The principles of Reading in this Academy are illustrated and applied on Mr. Russell's system, well known in this vicinity, and accompanied by his personal instruction, for which there is no separate charge to the pupils. With these advantages, a connection with the school, to those who devote a small proportion of their time and attention to reading, is rendered highly profitable, as it respects this important art.

Frequent exercises in Composition are required; and assistance in this department is rendered to the members of the school, not only by criticism, but in their having access to valuable works in English Literature in the Library of the Academy, for the purpose of reading and forming a correct style. The analysis of English Poetry in connection with the study of Grammar is made a stated exercise for some of the higher classes.

It is made a prominent object in the system, to render special assistance to those Young Ladies who design to engage in teaching. During the Winter Term a course of familiar Lectures on topics connected with teaching will hereafter be a part of the regular course; and, through the year, the arrangement of many of the studies will be made with reference to this object, affording, to such as desire it, the opportunity of attending to those branches in which they may be required soon to instruct. The habits formed in all the studies here pursued are designed to render young ladies qualified to impart as well as to acquire knowledge; and for those, who wish to prepare themselves to instruct in Academies and Higher Schools, all the facilities are furnished to pursue a course as extensive as their circumstances may require.

The discipline of the school is designed, in all its parts, to secure self-government and a due self-reliance. No young lady is expected to join the Institution merely to be instructed and governed, but to learn to govern herself on the strictest principles of propriety.

The moral and religious welfare of the pupils will ever be an object of care and solicitude to the teachers and guardians of the school. All the members of the Institution from other towns are expected to attend public worship regularly on the Sabbath with one of the several denominations worshipping in the vicinity of the Academy. The principles of the Bible, in which there is a stated lesson once a week, are illustrated and enforced, not only as affording rules for moral conduct, but as being an essential part of the system, and a source from which motives for well-doing should be constantly drawn.

None are admitted to the privileges of the Academy for a less period than one term except it be for special reasons. It is very desirable that all should be present at the commencement of the Term. Application for admission may be made to the Principal.

Young Ladies are admitted to the privileges of the Institution, to pursue the studies marked out above, so far as their time and circumstances will allow.

The course of instruction in the English Studies embraces three years; and it is believed that a thorough knowledge of these branches cannot ordinarily be acquired in a shorter period. The Academy is provided with apparatus sufficient for illustrating most of the important principles in the natural sciences. During the Spring Term the members of the school have the opportunity of attending the Lectures on Chemistry and Geology, delivered in the English Department of Phillips Academy.

The Study of the Languages holds a prominent place in the system. While this does not interfere with the course of those who wish to attend exclusively to the English branches, it is regarded the speediest as well as the surest method of attaining that discipline which is the main object of all study. Experience proves that, in ordinary cases, a daily recitation in one of the Languages, if pursued under proper instruction two or three terms, will fully compensate the scholar for the time and expense employed, by the habits of application which it forms, and the aid it affords in acquiring a knowledge of other branches. As this department is regarded highly important, and as many young ladies resort to the school for the purpose of enjoying these advantages, it is the design of the Trustees to secure, at all times, the best instruction both in the Modern Languages and in every branch of Classical study to which it is desirable for Ladies to attend.

During the whole course attention is given to instrumental and vocal Music, to Drawing and Painting so far as desired, and to Callisthenics. The latter taken in connection with walking in the open air and riding on horseback, is regarded as highly useful not only in affording a pleasing relaxation from severer employments, but in avoiding those diseases to which the studious are always exposed, and securing that tone of health which is requisite for happiness and success in any pursuit.

The principles of Reading in this Academy are illustrated and applied on Mr. Russell's system, well known in this vicinity, and accompanied by his personal instruction, for which there is no separate charge to the pupils. With these advantages, a connection with the school, to those who devote a small proportion of their time and attention to reading, is rendered highly profitable, as it respects this important art.

Frequent exercises in Composition are required; and assistance in this department is rendered to the members of the school, not only by criticism, but in their having access to valuable works in English Literature in the Library of the Academy, for the purpose of reading and forming a correct style. The analysis of English Poetry in connection with the study of Grammar is made a stated exercise for some of the higher classes.

It is made a prominent object in the system, to render special assistance to those Young Ladies who design to engage in teaching. During the Winter Term a course of familiar Lectures on topics connected with teaching will be given as a part of the regular course; and, through the year, the arrangement of many of the studies will be made with reference to this object, affording, to such as desire it, the opportunity of attending to those branches in which they may be required soon to instruct. The habits formed in all the studies here pursued are designed to render young ladies qualified to impart as well as to acquire knowledge; and for those, who wish to prepare themselves to instruct in Academies and Higher Schools, all the facilities are furnished to pursue a course as extensive as their circumstances may require.

The discipline of the school is designed, in all its parts, to secure self-government and a due self-reliance. No young lady is expected to join the Institution merely to be instructed and governed, but to learn to govern herself on the strictest principles of propriety.

The moral and religious welfare of the pupils will ever be an object of care and solicitude to the teachers and guardians of the school. All the members of the Institution from other towns are expected to attend public worship regularly on the Sabbath with one of the several denominations worshipping in the vicinity of the Academy. The principles of the Bible, in which there is a stated lesson once a week, are illustrated and enforced, not only as affording rules for moral conduct, but as being an essential part of the system, and a source from which motives for well-doing should be constantly drawn.

No pupil is admitted to the privileges of the Academy for a less period than one Term except it be for special reasons. It is very desirable that all should be present at the commencement of the term. Application for admission may be made to the Principal.

Young Ladies are admitted to the privileges of the Institution, to pursue the studies specified in the preceding outline, so far as their time and circumstances will allow.

The course of instruction in the English Studies embraces three years; and it is believed that a thorough knowledge of these branches cannot ordinarily be acquired in a shorter period. The Academy is provided with apparatus sufficient for illustrating most of the important principles in the natural sciences. During the Spring Term the members of the school have the opportunity of attending the Lectures on Chemistry and Geology, delivered in the English Department of Phillips Academy.

The Study of the Languages holds a prominent place in the system. While this does not interfere with the course of those who wish to attend exclusively to the English branches, it is regarded the speediest as well as the surest method of attaining that discipline which is the main object of all study. Experience proves that, in ordinary cases, a daily recitation in one of the Languages, if pursued under proper instruction two or three terms, will fully compensate the scholar for the time and expense employed, by the habits of application which it forms, and the aid it affords in acquiring a knowledge of other branches. As this department is regarded highly important, and as many Young Ladies resort to the school for the purpose of enjoying these advantages, it is the design of the Trustees to secure, at all times, the best instruction both in the Modern Languages and in every branch of Classical study to which it is desirable for Ladies to attend.

During the whole course attention is given to instrumental and vocal Music, to Drawing and Painting so far as desired, and to Callisthenics. The latter taken in connection with walking in the open air and riding on horseback, is regarded as highly useful not only in affording a pleasing relaxation from severer employments, but in avoiding those diseases to which the studious are always exposed, and securing that tone of health which is requisite for happiness and success in any pursuit.

The principles of Reading in this Academy are illustrated and applied on Mr. Russell's system, well known in this vicinity, and accompanied by his personal instruction, for which there is no separate charge to the pupils. With these advantages, a connection with the school, to those who devote a small proportion of their time and attention to reading, is rendered highly profitable, as it respects this important art.

Frequent exercises in Composition are required; and assistance is rendered to the members of the school by familiar criticism, and in directing them to a judicious selection of subjects suited to their advancement in this department. They also receive important aid in having access to valuable works in English Literature in the Library of the Academy, for the purpose of reading and forming a correct style. The analysis of English Poetry in connection with the study of Grammar is made a stated exercise for some of the higher classes.

It is made a prominent object in the system, to render special assistance to those Young Ladies who design to engage in teaching. During the Winter Term a course of familiar Lectures on topics connected with teaching will be given as a part of the regular course; and, through the year, the arrangement of many of the studies will be made with reference to this object, affording, to such as desire it, the opportunity of attending to those branches in which they may be required soon to instruct. The habits formed in all the studies here pursued are designed to render Young Ladies qualified to impart as well as to acquire knowledge; and for those, who wish to prepare themselves to instruct in Academies and Higher Schools, all the facilities are furnished to pursue a course as extensive as their circumstances may require.

The discipline of the school is designed, in all its parts, to secure self-government and a due self-reliance. No Young Lady is expected to join the Institution merely to be instructed and governed, but to learn to govern herself on the strictest principles of propriety.

The moral and religious welfare of the pupils will ever be an object of care and solicitude to the teachers and guardians of the school. All the members of the Institution from other towns are expected to attend public worship regularly on the Sabbath with one of the several denominations worshipping in the vicinity of the Academy. The principles of the Bible, in which there is a stated lesson once a week, are illustrated and enforced, not only as affording rules for moral conduct, but as being an essential part of the system, and a source from which motives for well-doing should be constantly drawn.

No pupil is admitted to the privileges of the Academy for a less period than one Term except it be for special reasons. It is very desirable that all should be present at the commencement of the Term. Application for admission may be made to the Principal.

Young Ladies are admitted to the privileges of the Institution, to pursue the studies specified in the preceding outline, so far as their time and circumstances will allow.

The course of instruction in the English Studies embraces three years; and it is believed that a thorough knowledge of these branches cannot ordinarily be acquired in a shorter period. The Academy is provided with apparatus sufficient for illustrating most of the important principles in the Natural Sciences. During the Spring Term the members of the school have the opportunity of attending the Lectures on Chemistry and Geology, delivered in the English Department of Phillips Academy.

The Study of the Languages holds a prominent place in the system. While this does not interfere with the course of those who wish to attend exclusively to the English branches, it is regarded the speediest as well as the surest method of attaining that discipline which is the main object of all study. Experience proves that, in ordinary cases, a daily recitation in one of the Languages, if pursued under proper instruction two or three terms, will fully compensate the scholar for the time and expense employed, by the habits of application which it forms, and the aid it affords in acquiring a knowledge of other branches. As this department is regarded highly important, and as many Young Ladies resort to the school for the purpose of enjoying these advantages, it is the design of the Trustees to secure, at all times, the best instruction both in the Modern Languages and in every branch of Classical study to which it is desirable for Ladies to attend.

During the whole course attention is given to instrumental and vocal Music, to Drawing and Painting so far as desired, and to Calisthenics. The latter taken in connection with walking in the open air and riding on horseback, is regarded as highly useful not only in affording a pleasing relaxation from severer employments, but in avoiding those diseases to which the studious are always exposed, and securing that tone of health which is requisite for happiness and success in any pursuit.

The principles of Reading in this Academy are illustrated and applied on Mr. Russell's system, well known in this vicinity, and accompanied by his personal instruction, for which there is no separate charge to the pupils. With these advantages, a connection with the school, to those who devote a small proportion of their time and attention to reading, is rendered highly profitable, as it respects this important art.

Frequent exercises in Composition are required; and assistance is rendered to the members of the school by familiar criticism, and in directing them to a judicious selection of subjects suited to their advancement in this department. They also receive important aid in having access to valuable works in English Literature in the Library of the Academy, for the purpose of reading and forming a correct style. The analysis of English Poetry in connection with the study of Grammar is made a stated exercise for some of the higher classes.

It is made a prominent object in the system, to render special assistance to those Young Ladies who design to engage in teaching. During the Winter Term a course of familiar Lectures on topics connected with teaching will be given as a part of the regular course; and, through the year, the arrangement of many of the studies will be made with reference to this object, affording, to such as desire it, the opportunity of attending to those branches in which they may be required soon to instruct. The habits formed in all the studies here pursued, are designed to render Young Ladies qualified to impart as well as to acquire knowledge; and for those who wish to prepare themselves to instruct in Academies and Higher Schools, all the facilities are furnished to pursue a course as extensive as their circumstances may require.

The discipline of the school is designed, in all its parts, to secure self-government and a due self-reliance. No Young Lady is expected to join the Institution merely to be instructed and governed, but to learn to govern herself on the strictest principles of propriety.

The moral and religious welfare of the pupils will ever be an object of care and solicitude to the teachers and guardians of the school. All the members of the Institution from other towns are expected to attend public worship regularly on the sabbath with one of the several denominations worshipping in the vicinity of the Academy. The principles of the Bible, in which there is a stated lesson once a week, are illustrated and enforced, not only as affording rules for moral conduct, but as being an essential part of the system, and a source from which motives for well-doing should be constantly drawn.

No pupil is admitted to the privileges of the Academy for a less period than one Term except it be for special reasons. It is very desirable that all should be present at the commencement of the Term. Application for admission may be made to the Principal.

TERMS.

The Academic year consists of three Terms. For the ensuing year they will be as follows:

The Fall Term of twelve weeks will commence on Thursday, September 5th, and end November 26th.

The Winter Term, of twelve weeks will commence on Wednesday, December 11th, and end March 4th.

The Spring Term of sixteen weeks will commence on Wednesday, April 2nd, and end July 22nd.

The first vacation will be, from the close of the Fall term, November 26th, two weeks.

The second from March 4th, four weeks.
